Christophe Rigon / Soto² 🧵 - @ki_cog@mstdn.social @ki_cog

[Scybernethic: SOTA] 🧵 ☐

I am currently working on a synthetic and comprehensive expression of scybernethics. Having had all the elements in hand for quite some time, I think the time has come to show the coherence and consistency of my approach (second-order rationality²).

The major problem for me was not its design, iterative and enactive, but its ethical expression, as a heuristic toolbox for "thinking differently", because it could also become a dangerous philosophy if it was interpreted ideologically as a cultural object, then instrumentalized by technology to construct "artificial subjectivities". It is the lack of ethics of contemporary social economic rationality that has held me back, beyond the inevitable complexity of its expression:

it is very difficult to think beyond one's time, and I have paid heavily for it all. throughout my existence by extreme marginalization.

But a page has been turned since my participation in this social network, more than a year ago, where I had the immense pleasure and honor of interacting with many of my heroes, and others besides. May everyone who took the time to interact with me be warmly thanked.

I am also working to create a more intimate and private digital space, but also more ethical than here, a place where the content belongs to those who produce it, where we are not castrated into pieces of 280 characters, to exchange and make memory around the enaction (past, present and future) and join further in the collective participatory enterprise which characterizes it, too. I sincerely hope that, despite the overload of work that we all take on (some for free), you will join me.

@threadreaderapp unroll

• • •